The South and Grant.

Peteraburg (Va.) Index-Appeal.

It was an instructive and agreeable task to read yesterday the comments of the press upon the character and career of the deceased chieftain. The most loving tributes, those most free from all cavil of his handless of the president cave from the South.

deceased chirals. The most own its butes, those most free from all cavil of his course as President, came from the South, which suffered more from the events that took place under Grant's administration than any other section of the country. The South remembered only the generous victor, the determined upholder of his word, him who stood between the life and liberty of its best beloved commander and the wild ravings of fanatics. His failings had all been forgotten; his virtues were sounded in clarton notes. But from all parts of the country there came such tribute of love and veneration as has not been laid upon the bler of any man of national reputation since Washington. And it is good that it was so. Out of the green leaves thus brought to the dead there shall be twined a wreath for the living which shall show forth the love and the strength and the harmony of a truly united great people.

The paper employed in the manufacture of the carciars is made out of bamboo film, and is without doubt the strongest paper made. Each cracker is filled, rolled and pasted by hand, and the nimble flugers of the convicts finish them with astonishing rapidity.

The powder is different from any other made, and despite the fineness of it is nevertheless equally as powerful as our best blasting powder. When ready for the market they are sent to Hong Kong, from thence they are distributed all over the world. In 1884 there were 500,000 boxes of firecrackers entered in this country. Each box contained forty packages, and each package from sixty-four to eighty crackers. From this some idea of the number of firecrackers exploded Independence Day may be gained.
